RELIABLE STATISTICS

Are highly instructive, exceedingly useful in many ways, and, withal, interesting to properly constituted minds. Statistics, however, like humorous literature, to be relished must not be presented to the mind in very large doses at any one time. The whole number of kinds and styles that are comprised in our vast assortment of Men's, Youths', Boys' and Children's Clothing, and Gentlemen's Furnishing Goods, in each of these departments of would doubtless be a very interesting piece of statistical intelligence to the readers hereof—the enormous totals would be an astonishing revelation to many people. But since we are kept much too busy serving the wants of our great army of patrons to make such an enumeration at all possible, it is sufficient for all practical purposes to remark here that all the appropriate and desirable fabrics of two hemispheres, in all the prevailing styles and shapes, are represented in exhaustive variety in our different departments. And at every price we touch, our standing guaranty—prices to be 10 to 25 per cent. below any competition or the money refunded in full upon return of the goods unaltered—is always good.

LIFE ON MT. MCGREGOR.

REST AND QUIETNESS HAVE REPLACED ANXIETY AND CARE.

A Delightful Pen Picture of Life at the Grant Cottage. The Children and Their Sports—Plans for the Future Yet Unsettled.

Mr. McGregor, N. Y., Aug. 22.—Everything at the Drexel cottage, made sacred as being the scene of the closing of General Grant's life, tells of quietude and rest.

Mrs. Grant is much attached to the spot, and feels that she could nowhere else bear the shock of her widowed life with the same approach to composure. She has left the cottage but twice since the general's death. Thursday she walked down to the Eastern Outlook, now a historic point in American eyes. She sits on the piazza daily, during the sunny hours, accompanied by one or another of her children. Once or twice a day she likes to have Dr. Douglas come in and prescribe for her. He has a great deal of professional delay, and never goes to his office until late. The half-past eight grand children who make up a portion of the household seem to enjoy the liberty given them and can be seen playing about the cottage any pleasant day.

Little Grant is, by the way, a Washington girl, and was born in the White House during the centennial summer, and baptized, together with Marshal Sharpe's youngest child, in the Blue parlor, by Rev. Dr. Newman, in 1876. She was brought from the river Jordan. She now is a four-year-old brother, the same for whom General Grant wrote a recent letter to whomsoever should be President when he arrived at suitable age, asking for his appointment to West Point. His name is Ulysses, but the family call him "Baby Brother," as it that they were his only name. Both children have long, fair brown hair streaming over their shoulders in luxuriance, and in their deep mourning they run to and fro between the cottage and the hotel, objects of respect to the respectful crowds who daily come up the mountain, pilgrims to the shrine of the departed hero.

All the family but Mrs. Grant come to the main dining-room for their meals. They have a quiet corner, the looking out upon the falls and the lovely points of view. Col. Fred sits at the head of the table, with his wife at his left and Mrs. Sartoris opposite. Ulysses, the second son of the general, sits at the right of Mrs. Sartoris, and the two little children at her left. Ulysses was the victim of a cold, and he looks depressed. All three of the young men, in fact, wear a chastened look, which seems to be the result of the criticism that might naturally spring in remembering the opportunities they have forfeited away and the fortune they have received. Col. Fred is really fine-looking, with the size and stature of his mother's family united to something of his father's features. He was not only a very broad head on his tall black hat, but a path of crapes tied in his left arm. It is proved that the three boys and their families will live with their mother at her Sixty-Sixth street house in New York for the present, after leaving Mt. McGregor early in September.

It is also factually understood that Mrs. Sartoris may remain at the cottage. Her husband's absence from the entire closing season was noted by many. Her three children are also left behind in England. They have excellent care from a paternal aunt in the absence of their mother, and have several nurseries assigned them besides, in the extensive establishment of the grandparent.

Another of Cleveland's Bank Appointments.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Hon. S. C. Brown, chairman of the Maine Democratic state committee, called on Acting Postmaster General Stevenson today and made an explanation relative to the case of the defaulting deputy postmaster at Lincolnville, Maine, now in jail, but who was recently appointed postmaster at that place, the appointment being revoked when the department was informed of the charge against him. The chief clerk explained that the signatures to the petition for the appointment of Calton were obtained and papers forwarded to Washington two months before the default was discovered, and that previous to this time he had borne a reputation for honesty and integrity. The explanation was entirely satisfactory, and the department was informed of the intention of recommending an unworthy man for office.

Byes in the Outdoors Like Dogs.

MADRID, Aug. 22.—The condition of Granada remains pitiable in the extreme. Hundreds of people are daily attacked by the cholera. There is a great scarcity of doctors and the authorities do not pretend to look after the victims. The cholera is now attacked with the disease in the streets and expire unattended in the gutters. Most of the unafflicted populace have fled, and the few healthy citizens who remain are disheartened. Dozens of corpses remain unburied and unidentified. The very manner wrought by the plague has become a nuisance, and the government has resorted to the desperate expedient of compelling the soldiers to carry away the work of removing from the public ways and interring the bodies of the unknown dead.

Eaten by Sharks Before They Could Be Rescued.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Aug. 22.—The steamer Mariposa, which arrived from Honolulu, Sandwich Islands, today, brings the news that the schooner Pokokiki, during a sudden squall, capsized off the coast of Hawaii, near the Kan district. All on board were killed. The captain and two of the crew managed to get in a boat which had been towing astern of the schooner, and rescued two other sailors, but the captain, his wife, child and two members of the crew were chased by sharks and drawn under water before the rescuers were able to reach them.

McCaffery is in good condition, weighs 165 pounds. He says Sullivan will fight at 235 pounds. McCaffery has wagered large sums of money on his winning.

Killed by Hitting a Young Lady.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 22.—A Chattanooga special to the Post-Dispatch says: A telegram from Coles, Ala., says: Last night Geo. Gillson, a prominent farmer, was waylaid and murdered by unknown parties. He was riding alone in a second stage when a volley of shots was fired. It is claimed that he was killed by a friend of a young lady whom he had betrayed.

SHE ABANDONED HER FAITH.

A Beautiful Young Lady Denounces God and Throws Himself in the River.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 22.—The body of the beautiful young woman about 21 years old, which was found in the river just above this city, and which was thought to be Mrs. Annie Johnson, of Madison, Ind., has been identified as that of Miss Laura H. Nourse, who came here a short time ago from Cincinnati where she has been engaged in missionary work. The fact has been developed this afternoon that she deliberately tied a towel over her mouth and was in the river leaving her clothing on the bank. Miss Nourse had been staying at the young ladies' home and was here searching for employment. She was highly educated and refined, and has a brother in New Orleans. She left a letter in her trunk saying she was tired of the life struggle, and denounced God as a 'fraud' in whom she had trusted all her life, but who would not help her in her trouble and distress. Miss Nourse was born in Washington, and is the daughter of an old army officer who is well known in military circles. Her body has been cared for by the authorities.

Yachts Racing for the Championship.

New York, Aug. 22.—The second of the series of three ocean races between the yacht 'Puritan,' of Boston, and 'Priscilla,' of New York, to decide which should be put forward as the representative of America to compete with the English yacht 'Gamb' for the Queen's cup, was sailed today. The first trial race was won by the 'Puritan' by a narrow margin. The British yacht fleet by the yacht 'America,' and since known as the 'America's cup,' was sailed today. The first trial race was between the 'Puritan' and 'Priscilla' was sailed yesterday, twenty miles to dead windward, and the 'Puritan' beat her rival by ten minutes. The race today was the same distance—fifty miles—over a triangular course, one-third to windward, one-third with the wind, and one-third to leeward. The 'Priscilla' reversed yesterday's verdict, winning by six and one-half minutes, actual time. The breeze was light and fairly steady, and the water comparatively smooth.

Big Storm at Cincinnati Last Evening.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 22.—A most violent storm that ever occurred here passed over the city about 6 o'clock this morning. The rain fell in heavy sheets, flooding basements all over the city. The temperature was suspended all street traffic. The maximum velocity of the wind was thirty-five miles per hour and this with the unusual rain caused a great deal of damage. The 'Puritan' and 'Priscilla' were wrecked. The damage to private dwellings was severe. No persons are known to have been killed, although several buildings were struck by lightning. The marine railroad and dry docks were damaged severely. Three steamboats on the docks were torn loose, and floated down the river some distance, but were finally caught and towed back.

The Labor Disturbances West.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 22.—The only developments in the Knight of Labor trouble today were confined to the yards of the bridge company to which five Wash engines were delivered this morning from the Missouri Pacific yards. With two exceptions the engines in the yards are all Knights and they refused to draw the fire or in any way handle the Wash engines. The superintendent was informed that if they were ordered to attend to them they would quit work in preference to doing so. No orders have been given yet to that effect, however, and the matter has not been brought to an issue.

LONDONERS CONTINUE TO TORN UP OVER THE RECENT EXPOSURE.

Immense Meeting at Hyde Park Yesterday Afternoon in Which Nationalists and Banners Figure Prominently—A Large Procession.

LONDON, Aug. 22.—The Mayoralty demonstration at Hyde Park this afternoon was attended by an enormous crowd. Thousands of women were in the crowd and two times as many more were along the line of the procession to the park. Among the numerous banners was one which bore the inscription: "Shall the innocents be slain?" Letters to Mrs. General Booth, approving the Salvation Army's work in rescuing young girls from the streets, were also seen. The east end contingent of the procession started towards Hyde Park promptly at 4 o'clock; this body had three bands and carried sixty banners, all having inscriptions on them such as "Save our daughters," etc. The cart which carried the enlarged copy of the queen's letter to the nation, was also in the procession. The women dressed in deepest mourning. The vehicles themselves were all heavily draped with black, and following the wagons were about 2,000 men on foot.

HIGHWAY ROBBERIES.

Attempt to Stop a Party of Fair Jewellers Near Cedarville.

Last Friday evening a bold attempt at highway robbery was made just below Cedarville. Wm. Eaton, an expressman of this city, was driving a couple of Hebrew takers, who had been working the Jimtown fair with cheap jewelry, toward this city. When they reached a point near Cedarville, where the road was heavily shaded, three highwaymen sprang into the road and attempted to halt them, one of them firing a shot which wounded the taker. The takers dropped to the bottom of the wagon and begged Eaton to drive on. He did so for all he was worth, but Bill Parsons, who was with him, exchanged shot for shot with the robbers, who then got up the chase. Although more than dozen shots were exchanged, nobody was injured.

SYMPATHIZING WITH KILLY.

Right Reverend Bishop Keane Offers His Sympathy.

RICHMOND, Va. Aug. 22.—Right Rev. Bishop John J. Keane, of the diocese of Richmond, recently wrote a letter to Hon. A. M. Kelly, whom the foreign nations have refused to receive as U. S. minister, in relation to what he terms the shameful persecution that gentlemen are suffering. The letter was written from St. Paul, Minn., the bishop being at present in the Far West conducting a series of spiritual revivals for the clergy. The bishop says I allude to the treatment of Kelly on you as an insult not only to one of the most highly and deservedly esteemed of the diocese of Richmond and one of the most honored citizens of Virginia, but through him to all his fellow Catholics and fellow citizens in this country, and to the property of the church. But in this insult to me I can see no humiliation save to those who have offered it. It was an honor to be welcomed by a government whose whole course has been marked by injustice and intolerance, and the offering of a letter to Kelly, having by its recent act made itself an abettor of the guilt and a partner in the shame, has thereby made itself incapable of humiliation.

J. LEUTY'S SON'S NEW MARKET.

The Handsomest Meat Market in the State of Ohio.

MEERS, J. Leuty's Sons are just completing what is beyond any doubt the most complete and at the same time the most elegant meat market in the state. This market is a great credit to the city as it shows the proprietors to be energetic and thrifty. To talk about a meat market being elegant seems rather odd, but in this instance it is no exaggeration as all who look in at J. Leuty's Sons new quarters on the east end at 8 and 10 South Market street, will testify. Money has been spent freely, and the interior and exterior have been made equally attractive to the eye. A handsome plate glass front gives an abundance of light and within the market presents an artistic appearance and most convenient arrangement. A handsome floor, of polished marble, is laid on some of the floor, and the walls are covered with hard wood with marble tops, beveled edge plate glass mirrors, and a large and commodious fire place all add to the attractiveness of the interior.

At the rear is a handsome oil painting of fat cattle, and underneath the picture is the door of the large cooling room which has been built so as to keep the meat at almost a freezing point. Buyers of meat have not as a rule fully appreciated until late years the benefits of this freezing process, and applied to meat; but now no good meat market is without its equipment in this line. The cooling rooms of J. Leuty's Sons is, however, the finest and best ever built in Ohio, and their customers will have all the advantages gained by it. These gentlemen are at the head of their profession. They are practical and thorough-going dealers and keep nothing at any time but the very best quality of beef, mutton, lamb and salt meat. You are always sure that you have a good roast or steak as can be had nowhere when you get it at Leuty's, and this reputation now generally conceded, has enabled them to push their business to such a point that they can pride themselves on having the finest trade in Springfield and the handsomest and most costly shop in the state. The new market will be open ready for business Tuesday. At that time and afterwards will be found to be well stocked with the finest of meats of all kinds. The firm desires the patronage it will undoubtedly enjoy in the future as it has in the past.

THE MIKADO.

Something About the New Opera to be Produced Here.

Frederick Herold's "The Mikado," the latest of Gilbert & Sullivan's opera, Mikado, pronounced by the way, mi-cado, with accent on the first syllable. Everywhere it has been received with enthusiasm, and the Wilbur Opera Co., which is to present it here next Friday and Saturday evenings, at the Grand, is the best of it to read.

The scheme of the opera is to satirize the arbitrary and summary way Japanese officials have of doing business. The Mikado thinks about the town of Titipu should have a public execution, and orders the local High Executioner to whip off somebody's head. He thinks it a good chance to get rid of a hated rival for the hand of Yum-Yum. The young minstrel, with whom she is in love, conspires to be hanged if allowed to marry and live with Yum-Yum until his execution. Ko-Ko, the executioner, reluctantly consents. The young minstrel reveals himself to Yum-Yum as Nanki-Poo, son of the Mikado, who runs away from his royal home to escape marrying Ko-Ko's daughter. He is a handsome Ko-Ko discovers that when Nanki-Poo is hanged his wife will have to be buried alive, and he will be cheated out of Yum-Yum. The state officers having all resigned, Poo-hoo assumes all the office, and is the grand old man of the town. He will not do to kill Nanki-Poo, the chief executioner suggests that an affidavit to his death will do just as well, and Poo-hoo, as coroner, furnishes a certificate of his death. When the Mikado comes to see his son, he finds him in a fix, and in order to get out of any kind of shape, Ko-Ko has to marry the female terror, and allow Nanki-Poo and Yum-Yum to return to the palace and live in peace.

A Lost Aeronaut.

London Times.

Mr. F. A. Gower lately carried on a series of experiments with a view to testing the adaptability of balloons to war purposes. Mr. Gower, who is well known to the scientific world as a joint patentee of the famous Gower-Bell telephone, had made Hythe the center of his operations, and thence made several ascents. His final and most important ascension was a successful aerial voyage across the Channel early in June. He continued his trial trips in France, and met with a misadventure while awaiting an opportunity of returning in a balloon to England.

Undertaken by him, he made an ascent on the 18th of July from Cherbourg, and since that date nothing definite has been known of his whereabouts. A pilot balloon which he had previously dispatched has been found and sent on to Hythe, and a balloon has been picked up in a state of some thirty miles off Dieppe. Sixteen days having elapsed since the ascent, and no message having been received from Mr. Gower, having variable practice it was to notify by wire his safety at either Cherbourg or Hythe, at both of which places he had left property of the greatest value. The experiments being carried on by Mr. Gower were within the cognizance of the government, and have so far proved of a very satisfactory character.

PROMISED GAITIES

FOR SPRINGFIELD'S YOUNG SOCIETY PEOPLE.

Social Chatter, Personal Mention, Including the Doings of Well Known People, and Introducing the Strangers Within Our Gates.

Society is beginning to see in the distance the silver lining of the cloud that has over hung it for the month past. The first month of autumn will see no less than five more or less brilliant weddings, and as things go in this city this will probably lead us to no end of gaiety. For the coming week there are on the tapis a large private dancing party and several small evening companies. Nothing of note occurred during the past week except on Friday evening, when all the terrific gaiety of the week burst forth and spent itself in a couple of picnics and evening companies.

The Urbana camp meeting has for years been a great social, as well as religious event. It is an open secret that half the crowd that attend on the great day, the second Sunday, go rather to meet their friends than to listen to the sermons. Among those who drove up from Springfield last Sunday were A. C. Black, Dr. T. R. Potter, Mr. and Mrs. John Bount, Mr. and Mrs. Chandler Robbins, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Little, Miss Nellie Johnson, and her guests, the Misses Jones, of Findlay, Miss Fannie Foley, Miss Mary Cassidy, Miss Corie Douglas, Miss Mary Rodgers, Miss Mary Rabbitts, Miss Annie McKnight, Miss May Howard, Miss Laura Selby, Randolph Coleman, Jim Donnel, Ralph Bartholomew, J. D. Philp and niece, George C.
